

Fulbright Virtual Information Session

Wednesday, January 27

2-3pm EST, Zoom

Learn what it takes to apply for a Fulbright fellowship! Sponsored by the US State Department, the Fulbright US Student Program offers grants to over 150 countries for an academic year of independent research, graduate study, or English teaching assistantship. Eligible students must be US citizens and have completed at least a bachelor's degree by the start of the grant in fall 2022/spring 2023. Graduate students and recent alum are also eligible. National deadline is in the fall and MIT internal deadline is in August, but students should begin planning their applications this spring. This info session will cover all the requirements, timelines, and tips for applying to the Fulbright 2022-2023 grant cycle. Register on Handshake here.
